CHILDREN STORY FOR NICO LENA

In the vast and mysterious ocean, there lived a lonely little fish named Nicol. With his sleek silver scales and shiny fins, he was the envy of all the other fish. But instead of swimming with his friends, Nicol preferred to be alone, lost in his own thoughts.

One day, as Nicol was swimming along a coral reef, he came across a beautiful line of seashells. He couldn't resist picking them up and stringing them together with a piece of seaweed. As he did, he felt a strange sensation on his face. It was as if hundreds of tiny needles were poking him.

"Ouch!" Nicol exclaimed. "What's happening to me?"
To his surprise, he noticed that his face was breaking out in a terrible case of acne. It was so bad that he could barely see.

Just then, a friendly old octopus named Clan swam up to him. "What's wrong, little fish?" he asked.
"I-I don't know," Nicol stammered. "My face is covered in acne."

"Don't worry," Clan said. "I know just the thing. Follow me."
Clan led Nicol to a nearby cave where there was a pool of bubbling water. "This is the Fountain of Youth," Clan explained. "It has the power to heal all sorts of ailments."

Nicol eagerly dipped his face into the water and held it there for several minutes. When he finally lifted his head, his acne was completely gone!

"Thank you, Clan!" Nicol exclaimed. "You saved my life."
"You're welcome," Clan said. "Now, why don't you go and play with the other fish? You don't have to be lonely anymore."

Nicol smiled and swam away, feeling much better than before. He realized that even when you're alone, there are always people who care about you. And most importantly, he learned that true beauty comes from within.